MAKE YOUR OWN INSTRUMENT

Materials:

- 2 study paper plates
- Staples
- Paint and stickers for decoration
- A long paint stick
- Glue
- A few beads
- Rubber bands

Directions:

1. Stack the two paper plates together and ask an adult to staple them together for durability.
2. Paint and decorate your paper plate with stickers to add some personality.
3. Glue a paint stick to the back of the plates.
4. Glue some beads on the end of the paint stick to be your pegs.
5. Add some strings by stretching rubber bands around the stacked plates.
6. You're ready to rock out!

Discovery Theater

Since 1979, Discovery Theater, the unique, DC-based museum theater has served as a gateway to Smithsonian exhibitions, collections, and themes. Through the joy of live stage performances, students from pre-K through 6th grade are immersed in global cultures, eco-science, living history, and traditional arts. Discovery Theater performances are created to complement students' classroom-based learning; to enrich audiences' knowledge of the arts, history, sciences, and cultures of the world; to foster a love of live theater; and to provide entertaining, educational museum-based interactive experiences.
